

During the three-day LITA Forum, he attended presentations on social cataloging and Web 2.0 applications, methods of creating "intelligent" delivery systems, and website redesign. He also exchanged notes and ideas with librarians and other developers who are switching to Drupal as a CMS or delivery platform. The Forum ended with a rousing call from David Lankes to go forth and make the (library) world a better place.