2007-11-27 presentations

I was going to put up the proposals, but then decided that people really wouldn’t have time to read them. So, instead, this is a place for you to comment on/talk about the final presentations.

As a reminder, here are the presentations we saw today. Comments and questions are fine; it would be nice if groups responded to comments and questions about their own presentation.

Ambient displays: using an ambient display to present heart rate information.

Out of Context: breaking webpages into “contexts” in order to help people find information faster.

Cornell Secrets: exploratory map-based search for interesting information about a place.

Live Closet: CMC for fashion information and advice

Terpsichore: using interactivity in an art installation to affect self-perceptions of creativity.
