

Summer Undergraduate Research Opportunities in Food Safety

In addition to internship opportunities, there are also opportunities for undergraduates to participate in summer research programs at universities and research institutes. Specific Summer Undergraduate Research Opportunities in Food Safety include:

The Cornell Food Science Summer Scholars Program. This program offers opportunities for freshman, sophomore and juniors to conduct research over 10 weeks in the summer under the mentorship of faculty members at Cornell.