

Student Employment

Employing several hundred students each year, Cornell University Library is one of the largest employers of students on campus. Due to its size and scope, the Library offers a wide range of scheduling possibilities as well as diverse work opportunities. Positions may range from assisting with accounting, access services, acquisitions and inputting, development, facilities, human resources, photocopying, shipping, or web development/maintenance. Some departments seek foreign language proficiency, while others may find a student with an interest in music, art, or computer skills a great fit.

Information for student employees

The majority of student jobs have been filled by departments for this academic year. Additional postings may develop throughout the year, so please check <http://studentjobs.seo.cornell.edu/sjp/jobSearch.htm> for the most up-to-date information.

Information for student supervisors