

Self-support of a Cornell-owned machine

Self-supporting a Cornell computer means taking on additional tasks and responsibilities compared with systems managed by Chemistry IT. These pages can help save you time and trouble, including access to set-up services by Chemistry IT staff.

Quick Cornell links

University IT Policies and IT Security Policies:

- <http://www.it.cornell.edu/policies/university/>
 - <http://www.it.cornell.edu/policies/university/security/>

IT Security how-to's

- <http://www.it.cornell.edu/security/how.cfm>

Secure My Computers and Mobile Devices

- <http://www.it.cornell.edu/security/how.cfm?cat=4>

How Chemistry IT can help you (sub-pages)

A) Set-up options for a self-supported Cornell-owned computer

For Cornell computers which are self-supported, you may want some of Chemistry IT's optional assistance. Pick and choose from the deli-order style offerings on this page!

B) Resources for those who self-support a Cornell-owned computer

This page includes a resources table compiled by Chemistry IT

See also

- Chemistry's Computer Exception Form and related networks